

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

TO THE

MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,—At the meeting of the National Coursing Club held in London in May last, it was resolved that a Greyhound Stud Book should be established, and that the registration therein of all Greyhounds running at any Coursing Meeting in the United Kingdom, should be compulsory on and after the 15th of July, 1883. At that meeting you did me the honour to appoint me keeper of the Stud Book, and it was, shortly after my appointment, suggested to me by several members of the Club, that I might, if I met with sufficient support, publish, prior to the coursing season of 1882-83, a volume of the Stud Book in which the entry or registration of Greyhounds should be voluntary. Recognising the valuable experience that might be gained in a tentative effort of this kind, I issued circulars and registration forms to all gentlemen connected with the sport whose addresses I could obtain. I sent out more than seventeen hundred of these forms and circulars, but a large number of them were returned to me through the Post Office, showing that one good result likely to flow from the establishment of a Stud Book would be the compilation of a correct list of the addresses of all owners of Greyhounds within the three Kingdoms.

I had stipulated that at least one thousand entries should be obtained, in order to justify my incurring the expense of issuing this volume, but it will be seen that the number falls somewhat short of my minimum. Keeping in view, however, the advantage of the experience that would be derived from publishing, I resolved to proceed with the work, and I now beg to submit to your favourable consideration the result of my labours.

Through the kindness of a friend who has devoted much time and research in its preparation, I have been enabled to add a feature of great interest, in the shape of a number of pedigrees of celebrated Greyhounds, which will be found to be much more complete than is usually the case with published pedigrees, the colour, date of pupping, as well as owners name being given in every case where it could be obtained. I am promised further assistance in this direction in future volumes, and although the expense of producing such matter is considerable, I hope to avail myself of the offer, so as to make the Stud Book not only valuable as a record of the passing generations of Greyhounds, but that it may be a means of tracing the purity of their descent to a remote period.*

I have also added a complete list of Waterloo Cup, Waterloo Purse, and Waterloo Plate winners and runners up, from the establishment of that great event down to the present time; while to amuse an idle hour I have added some personal reminiscences as to how the various contests that have come under my observation for the possession of the Blue Ribbon, have been fought and won.

I trust this experimental effort of mine may meet with your approval, and the support and patronage of all interested in the sport of Coursing. Any suggestions you may make, calculated to improve and utilize the Stud Book, will be received with thanks by,

MY LORDS AND GENTLEMEN,

YOUR OBEDIENT SERVANT,

D. BROWN.

* In connection with this proposal I desire to draw the attention, especially of the older coursers, to the remarks of the compiler of these pedigrees, which will be found on page 67. From my own experience I can sympathise with the extreme difficulty that besets the task of attempting to tabulate correctly the pedigree of any of the more remote Greyhound celebrities; and I would earnestly entreat the assistance of gentlemen who may be in the possession of information that would be valuable to carry out the programme sketched for next volume, to lose no time in communicating with me.

ABBREVIATIONS.

ABBREVIATIONS to be used in making entries in the Stud Book.

The sex to be distinguished by B for bitch and D for dog.

Blue, ... ..	be	Grey, ... ..	gr
Black, ... ..	bk	Lemon, ... ..	lem
Brown, ... ..	bn	Red, ... ..	r
Brindled, ... ..	bd	Yellow, ... ..	y
Cream, ... ..	cr	White, ... ..	w
Dun, ... ..	dn	Ticked, ... ..	tkd
Fawn, ... ..	f	Tanned, ... ..	tn

In any combination of these colours the predominating colour to be placed first, as where black prevails over white, bk and w; or if there be more white than black, w and bk, and so on through all the possible combinations. It is not desirable to register a colour that is not seen by the judge when following the dogs. Thus it often happens that a black dog has an insignificant patch of white on his chest, it may be a few white hairs on the tip of his tail, or a white toe. The entry of such a greyhound as a black and white simply leads to confusion and should be avoided. But in every case where the mark is of sufficient size to readily catch the eye of the judge it must not be omitted.

In entering all aged greyhounds where the month or date of pupping cannot be got, the year will suffice, but with puppies the month, and if possible the day of the month, is to be given. Particular attention is requested to filling up the forms (which are now ready and can be got on application to me) in accordance with the example given; any deficiency, except in the particulars as to pupping set forth above, will lead to delay and unnecessary correspondence. It is earnestly requested that, in order to facilitate the early publication of the volume, registration should be made as soon as possible. The labour of drawing up an Alphabetical Index and preparing a work of this character for the press is very great, and if the bulk of the entries be not made long before the day of closing (the 15th of July, 1883), it will be impossible to get it out in time to be in the hands of the public before the coursing season begins. This is most desirable, and the considerate co-operation of all gentlemen having entries to make will be highly esteemed by, their most obedient servant,

D. BROWN.

SPRATTS PATENT GREYHOUND

Meat "Fibrine" Vegetable

DOG CAKES

(WITH BEETROOT).

THESE SPECIAL BISCUITS contain 35 per cent. of Meat, and are Manufactured from the Best Scotch Oatmeal, Wheaten Meal, and other ingredients, forming the most successful food for Greyhounds in training. Used by all the principal Greyhound Trainers, including the owners of many Winners of the Waterloo Cup.

Extract from The Field:—

"SPRATTS PATENT BISCUITS FOR GREYHOUNDS."

"In reply to the inquiry of 'J. D.' in The Field of the 3rd inst., I have the pleasure to inform him that my Puppies "Tourist" and "Tear'em," joint Winners of the North Lancashire Stake at the Ridgway Meeting, Lytham, in October last; as also "True Blue," Winner of the Scarisbrick Cup at Southport in the same month, were principally fed on "Spratts Patent Greyhound Biscuits," containing 40 per cent. of Meat, a little Broth and Vegetables being added whilst being trained. "Spratts Patent Biscuits" have formed the principal food in my kennel for some years, and I can, from personal experience, strongly recommend them to Greyhound owners, my Dogs having ran with great success, on the whole (as a reference to the Coursing Calendar will testify), and are, as a rule, in the best of health and fire.

"J. TOMLINSON, Heath House, Sandbach, July 7th."

"I fed my Greyhounds for several years on "Spratts Patent Biscuits," and can, with the greatest confidence, recommend them to 'J. D.' My Dog "Larry Lonsdale" never ran so well as when he was trained on them, and ran through three 32-Dog Stakes unchallenged in succession one season, with the stoutest hares in Ireland, on the Bourbawn Meadows, Newbridge, and Limerick. I believe Mr. Dunbar's famous Bitch "Royal Mary" (got by my Stud Dog "Grand Warden"), Winner of the Waterloo Plate, was also trained on "Spratts Patent Biscuits."

"C. LANGLEY, Cabra Castle, Thurles, Ireland."

BEWARE OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS!!!

Please see that every Cake is stamped "Spratts Patent," and a "X."

ROUND OATMEAL DOG BISCUITS,

For Greyhounds, where preference is giving to training on Meat. They contain 50 per cent. of Oatmeal, and can be had with a larger proportion, if desired.

I HAVE often thought that an interesting article might be written by some of the older brethren of the Leash on the history of the Waterloo Cup. Doubtless there are still a few alive who remember seeing Lord Molyneux's Milanie beat Mr. Norris's Unicas for the first Waterloo Cup run in 1836. It was then but a paltry eight-dog stake, and probably no one ventured to anticipate that this was the beginning of what was to become the "Blue Ribbon of the Leash," and that Milanie would head the list of a long line of victors, every one of whose names have become as household words to the enthusiastic courser. To any one conversant with the details of its early history there is an ample fund of general material to work upon. The causes that led to its extension the following year to a sixteen-dog stake, to be followed by another advance to a thirty-two in 1838, and nineteen years afterwards to its present dimensions as a sixty-four are points that could not fail to prove interesting. To trace the winning strains of blood and their influence on the succeeding generations ; to notice its growth in public favour as evinced by the gradually swelling numbers that year after year participate in its pleasures, as well as the vast monetary interests that are now annually at stake might also be touched upon ; and, indeed, all around may be found the subject material for a thoroughly enjoyable article, if any one possessing the necessary personal experience were to take it up. The popularity of the meeting might long ago have been its death-blow but for the special and peculiar advantages that are to be found in the Altcar Country, and I may also add the very great kindness and forbearance displayed by its noble owner, the Earl of Sefton, who must, on many occasions, have had his patience sorely tried by the unruly crowds who have not infrequently put at defiance all the carefully planned arrangements for the general comfort and convenience of the spectators. To those unacquainted with the ground I may briefly describe it as a vast stretch of meadow-land, reaching from the shores of the Mersey, about three miles inland, and whereon is grown much of the hay required for the enormous wants of Liverpool, from which it is distant about twelve miles. It has evidently been reclaimed at no distant date, and is intersected by an artificial river called the Alt. The ground is laid off in squares of about thirty or forty acres—these being drained on all sides by ditches about six feet wide and four feet deep. In winter, when the fields are cleared of the abundant crops that can almost invariably be relied upon here, they form an arena for testing the merits of Greyhounds, such as has scarcely a parallel in the Kingdom; while the roads and ditches afford facilities for the management of crowds, without which it would be utterly impossible that the vast numbers attending the Waterloo Meeting could with any comfort be spectators of the sport. Of late years the objectionable feature of betting, or I should rather say welshing, has developed itself to such an extent as to become a thorough nuisance. The thieves and blackguards, who are the companions of the welsher, and who do their best to secure spiders for the net, make short work of any unfortunate who may have staked and fancied he had won his money, the ditch is always a ready place into which he may be thrust, and, should he remonstrate, he may account himself lucky if he escapes robbery and a broken head. Thanks, however, to the energetic action of the Earl of Sefton at the last meeting, we are likely to be less troubled in the future by this intolerable nuisance. His lordship gave orders that no flags, stools, or any of the usual paraphernalia of the betting man were to be allowed on the ground, and his instructions being strictly carried out by a division of police there was, on the last two days, almost an entire absence of the ruffianism that prevailed the first day. A continuation of this action on the part of his lordship, enforced by an increased police staff, will soon purge the meeting of the presence of an element that was rapidly undermining the interest that is felt in the great contest by all who love to see the best Greyhounds of their day contending in an open country, on what I may call the classic coursing field of Britain.

My personal experience of the Great Waterloo Cup is of too recent a date to justify me entering upon a review of its history, and I willingly leave its earlier chapters to some older and abler hand, trusting that such will be found, and promising that if I have the opportunity I will not fail to spare space for anything that may reach me upon so important and interesting a subject. For want of a better historian and simply to serve as an introduction to the list that is appended, I purpose giving a brief sketch of its salient features since it was made a sixty-four Dog-Stake. My first Waterloo was the memorable one when the Cup was divided between Mr. John Jardine's Clive and his Selby, in the year 1859. Two years previous to this the growing interest in the contest had been met by the management increasing the stake to a sixty-four, and the first victory fell to Scotland by the aid of King Lear, a son of the hardy Wigan, whose success at a meeting in Scotland I had witnessed some six years previously. King Lear was the property of a Mr. Wilson, who occupied the humble position of a waiter in one of the hotels of Dumfries, and this lucky stroke of fortune enabled him to materially improve his social position; but, although he continued to keep a dog or two he never had another good one, and King Lear dying before he had been long at the stud, he was deprived of what would doubtless have added materially to his income. Those beaten by King Lear were—the celebrated British Grenadier, Motacilla, Debonnaire, Barrator, Protest, and in the final, Capt. Spencer's Sunbeam, by John Bull out of Fleur-de-lis. Mr. Armistead's Albatross won the Purse, and Mr. W. Long's David (the sire of many a grand South Country Greyhound) was second. The Plate was secured by Mr. Jones' Jail-Bird, who beat Mr. Hammond's Goldfinder in the final. This was the last Waterloo Meeting judged by Mr. Nightingale, increasing years and infirmities compelling him to retire from the saddle he had so long and honourably filled, although I remember seeing him several years afterwards on the ground seated on a camp stool and watching with eager interest the performances of the descendants of many an old favourite. Mr. McGeorge was judge the following year, which saw the victory of Mr. Cass's fawn dog Neville, who beat nothing of historic importance, although Antipas, Albatross, Portland, War Office, Tempest, Dalton, Sunbeam, Belted Will, and King Lear were all in the stake; Deacon, whom he defeated in the final, being perhaps the best Greyhound he met. Albatross, for the second time, was the hero of the Purse and Mr. W. Carr's Dr. Dodd ran up to him. Debonnaire won the Plate, beating in the final Mr. Thomas's Lady Watford, by Larriston out of Consideration. In Clive and Selby's year Mr. Dalziel officiated in the saddle, and many good Greyhounds were engaged, such as Maid of the Mill, Dalton, Pugilist, Antipas, Portsea, Cardinal York, Java, Baffle, Fanny Fern, Diana Vernon (sister to Cardinal York), Sourocks, &c. Antipas and Portsea were the last brace left in with the kennel companions, Clive and Selby, who scored, in both cases, rather easy victories, and left Mr. Jardine a dual victor, a position that has not been attained by any other courser. Mr. Jebb's Omega (named by Mr. Randall) was first in the Purse, Mr. Borron's Bohemian running up to him; while Mr. Jefferson's Java beat Mr. Randall's Regan (named by Mr. Hammond) and won the Plate. As I have already mentioned my personal experience begins with this meeting, and I can well recall the fascinating interest that to me surrounded everything connected with the contest. The entry and draw were then held in the old Waterloo Hotel, in the occupation of Mr. Lynn, who acted as Secretary of the meeting, and who had the honour of nominating the first Greyhound that ever won a Waterloo Cup. The Waterloo Hotel, although one of the leading places of entertainment at that time in Liverpool, was not a very imposing structure, nor was it kept as attractive as it might have been. The whole place had a dingy appearance; from basement to attic it was smoke begrimed and dirty, few and far between appeared to be the visits of the painter, and the only redeeming point about it was the fine old fashioned furniture, which, to the credit of the housemaids it must be admitted, was kept well polished. The banquet was held in the dining room, of which the very utmost was made by the removal of all superfluous fittings, and space was found for the accommodation of about eighty of the holders of the one hundred tickets issued, the remainder being compelled to dine elsewhere. This was one of the few occasions on which Mr. A. Graham, the late "Emperor" of coursers, was absent from his usual position at the head of the table, and Mr. Marjoribanks, the eminent

London banker, who then coursed under the name of Mr. C. Jardine, was called to the chair. Betting was not indulged in to the same extent as it has been latterly, and the few professionals that attended conducted their operations in a gentlemanly way, never interfering until owners had invested what they wanted. Even then there was none of that hideous yelling and screaming that now goes so far to make attendance at one of these gatherings an experience we would incline, if possible, to shirk; all was done in a thoroughly business like manner and in striking contrast to what now prevails. Passing from this reminiscence however let me notice that the Cup in the following year was won by Mr. Blackstock's Maid of the Mill, who had, as a second, Lord Sefton's Sampler, by Skyrocket out of Stitch, and there were not a few who thought that their places should have been changed. It is not my province to revive long past scandals, but, justly or unjustly, there was a strong feeling manifested against Mr. Dalziel's decisions on this occasion, and he never judged another Waterloo Meeting. Orator won the Purse for Mr. J. Jardine, while Mr. Hyslop, who rarely hoisted a flag with anything of his own, was second with Mr. Gregson's Ramathan Roy. Mr. Boote secured the Plate by the aid of Wild Wave, a Larriston bitch, and Mr. D. W. Brown was second with Beranger, a son of Judge and Grisette.

It was in the winter of 1857 that Mr. W. G. Borron, who had by careful breeding, purchasing, and training, brought his kennel to a pitch of perfection that has probably never been equalled in modern times by any other courser, suddenly formed the resolution of selling off the whole of his running Greyhounds, and the coursing world was startled by an announcement that the entire kennel, numbering twenty-five, would be disposed of by public auction at Aldridge's, on the 12th of December. As might have been expected good prices (for those days) were realized, but my object in mentioning this is to show the influence it had on our breed of Greyhounds. Mr. Borron it is well-known would never advertise, or even allow the blood of his kennel to be at the service of the public, looking upon those who made public property of their dogs as sacrificing to pelf the purity of the Greyhound strain. It was pretty much his practice to buy whatever bitches he thought would improve his stock, and not being indebted for favours of this nature he did not expect to be asked for them. The stud dog Beacon, by Bluelight out of Frolic, if I remember aright, brought somewhere about £90, and proved a cheap purchase for his new owner. Shortly before this Mr. Ivie Campbell had burst upon the coursing world and by his strange names and the success of his kennel at once attracted attention. He sent his bitch Scotland Yet (possibly the handsomest Greyhound I ever saw) to Beacon, and the result was a litter of pups that included the famous Canaradzo. Strange to say Mr. Campbell did not greatly fancy the dog, although he had run in such brilliant form at Biggar in the autumn as to impress all good judges with the opinion that he was a wonder, and to the dismay of many who had backed the nomination in the belief that he would be the representative. Mr. C. preferred the blue and white dog Colossal, by Beacon out of Mahaga. Mr. Hyslop by this lucky stroke secured the second string and Mr. G. Steel ran a sister of the future crack named Cazzarina, the result being that Colossal failed to raise a flag either in the Cup or Purse, while the second string won the Cup, and the third got a race, both in Cup and Plate ! Mr. Spinks ran up to Canaradzo with Sea Rock, and among the celebrities that are not recorded as winners of either of the stakes, may be mentioned the previous years heroine, Meg of the Mill (who won three courses), Ingomar, Rienzi, High Idea, Blue Hat (the Irish Terrier), Picton and Diana Vernon (brother and sister of Cardinal York), and Seventy Pounder. The Purse went to Ireland, Mr. Callan ns (Mr. Gray's) Barney Williams beating Cardinal York in the final. Lord Sefton's clever bitch Sampler got beat in the second round of the Cup by Dr. Fastus, but secured the Plate, beating Faldonside, the nomination of Mr. C. Jardine, in the deciding course. While there was some grumbling about the selection of Canaradzo to represent Mr. Hyslop, this was not done through any desire to mislead the public, for Mr. Campbell honestly believed Colossal the better Greyhound, and only stood Canaradzo to win £500. A good story was told me by Mr. Hyslop in reference to this money. The friends occupied a double bedded room, and doubtless after the victory, had been somewhat late in retiring to it. Before doing so, Mr. C. had received the money he had won from the bookmaker, and carefully placed it in his pocket-book. Next morning, the book was amissing, it was not in his pocket, it was not under the pillow, it was not beneath the bed, it was not on the floor ; Mr. Hyslop was questioned but had not seen it ; the chambermaid was called, the landlord was roused, and the whole house thrown into a state of confusion, when suddenly a light dawned upon the old gentleman, who, darting towards the four poster, thrust his hand between the bed and mattress, and drawing forth the book with a sigh of relief, made such hurried apology as he could to those his strange forgetfulness had so disturbed. Perhaps I should not pass from the notice of this contest without remarking that probably no two Greyhounds have had so much to do with the successful produce of modern times as Canaradzo and Cardinal York. Their strains of blood may be said to permeate the entire winning stock, and few pedigrees are considered perfect without a touch of both ; and yet no two Greyhounds could present a greater contrast in personal appearance. Canaradzo was the high-bred gentleman all over, inheriting from his dam the perfect mould and fine clear coat which was a characteristic of all her offspring, while from his sire he had that muscle and power and dash that in subsequent generations became naturally associated with the Canaradzo breed. Cardinal York on the other hand was essentially a coarse looking animal. His hair was hard, inclining almost to rough, he was built like a bull-dog, while he had a tail that would not have disgraced a fox ; but with all this he had great bone and muscle, and while he was by no means fast, his resolution and cleverness often served him instead of pace. This was the first Waterloo Cup judged by Mr. Warwick, and so well did he acquit himself that for thirteen years he was continued in the important position.

Turning to the year 1862 we find the Beacon blood again to the front in Roaring Meg, a daughter of his, named by Mr. Callander but belonging to Mr. George Gregson. In the final he defeated Mr. Brocklebank's Bowfell, by Judge out of Rhapsody. The famous Kingwater took part in this contest and bowled over Canaradzo in the third round, his wonderful pace enabling him to lead the crack many lengths. Ingomar won three courses, one less than the previous year, and Belligerent got four, the position attained by Kingwater. Baffler was among the number defeated by the winner, and the runner up beat a good Greyhound when Master Leotard went down. Blue Hat this time could only get one course in the Cup and two in the Plate. Mr. Spinks, who was second for the Cup the previous year, secured the Purse on this occasion with Sea Pink, who beat in the final Mr. Racster's Romping Girl, named by Mr. Long. Othello won the Plate and Faldonside was second. Coming to 1863 we find Mr. T. T. C. Lister's name, for the first time, in the list of winners, Chloe, a daughter of Judge, being the heroine. In her first three courses she met and defeated three Scotch representatives, in Great Gun, Dixie, and Spider; then she disposed of Imperatrice and Reliance, and met a foeman worthy of her steel in Mr. Haywood's famous bitch Rebe. Unfortunately the trial was not a satisfactory one, for Rebe getting unsighted in the run to the hare, was all abroad when she did join, and running in most unusual style for her, had not settled down when the hare sougled. Kingwater again got two courses, beating the famous Patent in the second, but was defeated by Imperatrice in a course where the superior cleverness of the bitch told. Reliance and Silkworm got into the fifth round, and Sea Foam, a sister of Canaradzo, credited Mr. Spinks with three courses, beating her sister Coodareena in the third. Lord Grey de Wilton took the Plate with Glendower, a son of David, who put out Mr. Spinks's Sea Girl, named by Mr. Bateman, in the third round. Patent, another son of David, made short work of all his opponents in the Plate, defeating the Scotch dog Dunoon in the final. This Waterloo Cup will be memorable as the only one where four days coursing was necessary to finish the card, this being partly due to the unruly character of the crowd, but more particularly to a change in the arrangements that was found not to work well.

The year 1864 was that in which the progeny of Canaradzo began to appear, and his position at the stud was stamped at once by the success of his son, King Death, in the Waterloo Cup. Such a result was scarcely expected, for although Dr. Richardson's dog had been second in a thirty-two Dog-Puppy Stake at Coquetdale in the autumn, this did not attract much attention, and he started at the then comparatively outside price of 40 to 1. His performance over Altcar, however, was highly creditable, beating, as he did, Innocence, Baron Nicholson, Master Sweeney, Imperatrice, Glendower, and finally Mr. Haywood's Rebe, who, for the second year, just failed to secure the leading place. The final was one of the poorest trials ever run for a Waterloo Cup, as the dog by superior cleverness at the drain just got up in time to wrench his hare before she gained the sough. It must have been very annoying to a good courser like Mr. Haywood to be thus bowled over two years in succession, and both times in an unsatisfactory manner; but, such is the luck of coursing, and no one need turn his attention to the sport who is not prepared to suffer and overcome many unexpected disappointments. Rebe was sadly handicapped in meeting King Death, as she had just run three courses with Sea Pink, while the dog got rid of Glendower by a lead up and the kill. Previous to meeting Sea Pink she had beaten Justice, Roaring Meg (the winner of 1862), Julia Mannering, and Hopbine. The flying Lady Stormont took part in this Cup, and although her pace served her for a couple of courses, her loose style was not suited to the ground, and she got beaten by Imperatrice in the third round. Patent fell before Sea Pink in the same class, and a smart bitch went down when Blue Bell was beaten by Glendower. Mr. Campbell's Calabaroona, by Cardinal York out of Canopy, was first for the Purse, beating Lord Binning's Donald in the final, while such well-known Greyhounds as Tamar, Tullochgorum, Streamer, Innocence, and Coorooran were among the unsuccessful performers. The Plate went to the Earl of Eglinton by the aid of Rainbow, another son of Cardinal York, and Mr. John Jardine was second with Owersby, a son of "the great dog" as Selby (who weighed over 70 lb.), was called.

In 1865 Colonel (now General) Goodlake, V.C., had the good fortune to nominate the winner which turned up in Mr. G. Carruthers's fawn bitch Meg, by Terrona out of Fanny Fickle. The second to her was Mr. Kennedy's King Tom, by Canaradzo out of Kitty Nicholson, nominated by Mr. John Knowles. The first favourite for the event was Calabaroona, who had sometime before the meeting been sold to Lord Uffington for 200 sovs., but the dog was all to pieces, and although he managed to win a couple of courses in the Purse and so save his credit, it was evident he was not in any form, and, indeed, he ultimately turned out a dear purchase for his lordship. Rebe, Bonus, Sultana, Blue Bell, Johnny Cope, King Death, Clasper, and Beatrice Princess, were the next favourites, but only Bonus and Blue Bell survived the second round, and the third saw the race left entirely in the hands of outsiders, the best of whom, after the winner and runner up already mentioned, were Sea Ranger and Reveller II. The Purse was divided between Mr. Blackstock's Beckford and the old favourite Rebe, while the Plate went to King Death, who beat in the final "General" Green's Gaiety, by Seagull out of Gem, and in the round previous his brother Johnny Cope. In the early part of the week frost was pretty severe, and fears were entertained that the meeting might not come off, but a welcome change set in on the Tuesday, and although it was unfit for coursing on Wednesday, a start was made on Thursday, and the meeting finished on Saturday afternoon. There was nothing very remarkable about Brigadier's year, if we except the marvellous manner in which Mr. Foulke's dog snatched the victory out of the fire, after it had appeared any reasonable odds against him through the strong beginning made by Fieldfare. It was probably the most extraordinary instance of what pluck and perseverance may accomplish that has come under my observation, as in any reasonable length of course, the bitch had him thoroughly beaten but a strong hare saw her die away to nothing at last, and the dog drove his game for a long time before killing and winning with something in hand. Canld Kail, who was one of the best Greyhounds the north ever produced, and the cleverest dog on a hillside I ever saw slipped, took part in this Waterloo Cup, but proved himself badly adapted to the ground and could get no more than one course. In his second with Blue Eye he had an undecided, and in running it off lamed himself, so that it was found necessary to withdraw him from the Plate. The grand old Rebe once more gave a touch of her quality by winning four courses, and only suffering defeat at last by being outpaced, and during the four years she had taken part in the contest, although she never won either of the stakes, she raised fourteen flags in the Cup and four in the Purse.

Theatre Royal, a real good Greyhound, by Cardinal York out of Meg of the Mill (the winner of the Cup in 1860) was third, being beaten in a well contested course by Brigadier just before the final. Mr. Garnet was the winner of the Purse with the south country bred bitch Golden Hair, by David out of Racketty Hoppicker, and Lord Sefton's Scape-grace, by Brewer out of Scandal, was second. Godiva, a daughter of Canaradzo, belonging to the present Earl of Galloway and named by Colonel Bathurst, won the Plate, beating in the deciding course Mr. Sexton's Samuel, who was by David out of Patch.

The year 1867 saw the victory of Mr. Leigh's Lobelia, in whose veins flowed the Beacon and Scotland Yet blood, through her sire Sea Foam, who was a full brother of Canaradzo. She had a very narrow escape from defeat in her first course when she fell against the Scotch dog Lord Soulis, who had not been intended to run at the meeting, but who at the last moment was wired for, and arrived on the Tuesday evening, to represent Captain Windham. The course was lost and won more than once, and it was only the superior condition of the bitch that enabled her to pull through at last with a little in hand. From this point, however, she appeared to improve, and running all her courses with great fire and cleverness, was hailed an easy winner. For the third year in five seasons Mr. Haywood was second, this time, however, his bitch Royal Seal was named by Mr. Long, while his own representative Regulus, got bowled over in the third round. It was rather hard lines upon the veteran owner of the Blakemere Kennel to be thus for the third time within easy reach of the coveted prize, and to have it snatched from him. On this occasion, however, there was no bad luck to blame, and Mr Haywood was himself the first to acknowledge that the better Greyhound had won. Cauld Kail had another try this year, but although he got a couple of courses he was put out by Rather Improved in the third round, in what seemed to me and the greater part of the spectators to be an extraordinary decision on the part of Mr. Warwick, whose verdict was subsequently, however, corroborated by some good judges that were in another part of the field, and thought they had a fair view of the course. The marvellous difference which position makes in viewing a course on this ground has long been acknowledged, but I have rarely seen a more striking instance of it than the one mentioned. Brigadier, the previous year's winner, went down in his first course, being defeated by Basil, while in the Purse he fell in his third course before Lucy Long. There was no prominent favourite on this occasion, although nominally Mr. Brocklebanks's Batavia occupied the position, with Basil and Cauld Kail next. Batavia won her first course, then collapsed when opposed to Gaudy Poll in a rather unfortunate trial to a weak hare. Fieldfare, who made such a gallant fight for highest honours the previous year, won her first course and fell against Royal Seal, when we were treated to a very brilliant performance on the part of the two bitches—Mr. Haywood's favourite just securing the fiat by staying the longest. Trovatore raised four flags and beat some real good Greyhounds in Glideaway, Blue Rock, and Fortuna, but undoubtedly the best that succumbed to her was the fawn and white bitch Marionette (a daughter of Patent and Romping Girl), who was one of the smartest Greyhounds of her day, but on this occasion, after taking a good lead, lost, to the surprise of her party, by unsteadiness. Bettelheim, a despised son of Rienza, by sheer pluck, got into the third position, but was no match for the winner, who outpaced and outworked him. Gaudy Poll was much thought of for the event after her first day's running, but falling against Lobelia she met a faster, and was cleverly beaten. Mr. Hyslop, of Denton Hall, had been doing great things for some years with the produce of his cross between Cardinal York and High Idea, and he on this occasion had brought forward a fast greyhound in Strange Idea who, after winning three courses in brilliant style, found his superior in Royal Seal, though not until they had gone twice to slips. The Purse went to Ireland by the aid of Mr. Swinburne's Shy Girl (named by Mr. Bartholomew), who defeated in the final another Irish representative in Mr. Wise's Woman in Blue. That grand greyhound, Princess Royal, who was put out of the Cup by Cauld Kail, made short work of her opponents in the Plate, beating in the final Lord Lurgan's Lady Cecil, named by Mr. Garrett.

We now come to the year that brought prominently before the world the greatest greyhound that has ever gone from slips, the never-to-be-forgotten MASTER M'GRATH. In the early part of the season he had given the Irishmen a notion of what he could do by winning the Visitors' Cup (32) at Lurgan, and four days after, dividing another thirty-two at Creagh; but it was difficult to persuade people that a veritable wonder had at length appeared, and while the weight of Irish money kept the dog in the front rank of favourites, it must be admitted that there was little English coin entrusted to him. When he began with an undecided against Belle of Scotland, the layers of two to one on the Irish crack looked rather glum, but at the next attempt he opened all our eyes by the brilliant way in which he handled his hare and fairly smothered Mr. Blackstock's bitch. Improving as he went on he vanquished Kalista, Marionette, Brigade (who was first favourite at the start), Lobelia, the heroine of last year, and finally Mr. Lister's Cock Robin. The latter good greyhound had fallen against his sister Charming May in the previous round, when the bitch was drawn, but ran the bye with him, and gave him a thorough dressing. Of course, there was a general opinion expressed that the wrong one had been left in, and certainly it looked so, although doubtless Mr. Lister knew the one on which he could place most reliance, and acted for the best. In the final he did not disgrace himself, doing everything he could when at close quarters, but the superior stride and dash of the Irish crack carried him through a decisive winner, and for the first time in its history the Cup crossed the Channel, where it has since frequently journeyed. Never was a defeat taken by Englishmen in better part, for not only was it recognised that the stake had been won by a greyhound of superlative merit, but it was felt to be a suitable reward for the dogged perseverance displayed by our Irish friends in their prolonged struggle to secure the highest honours of the leash. The Purse fell to the lot of Mr. Spinks by the aid of Jane Ann, the property of Mr. Saunders, who beat in the final Mr. J. Johnston's Justitia; while for the second year in succession Lord Stair named the winner of the Plate, which on this occasion turned up in Princess Royal, by Cardinal York out of Meg of the Mill, who beat in the final the handsome Improver, the property of Mr. R. Jardine. I must not, however, pass over this year without noticing the presence of a greyhound that stands in the estimation of many people scarcely second to the mighty M'Grath. BAB-AT-THE-BOWSTER came to slips an unbeaten greyhound, having divided the Scottish National St. Leger, fifty-two runners, with Lord Lurgan's Master Ivo, and the Croxteth Stakes, for bitches, fifty-eight runners, at Altcar, with Mr. Brocklebank's Brigade. No better all-round greyhound was ever slipped than the daughter of Boanerges and Mischief, but she was not so good as the Irish wonder over Altcar, and after beating Whiz and Fiz and Fanatic, she came against the previous year's winner Lobelia, who had the good fortune, after an undecided, to get the inside in the run to the hare, whereby she got first up, and keeping possession in her peculiarly brilliant style, never let the Scotch crack have a look in. It was a grand performance on the part of Mr. Legh's bitch, and I well remember the enthusiasm with which it was greeted.

The interest in the struggle next year was greatly intensified by the interim performances of the two celebrities. Master M'Grath had added to his laurels by dividing the Brownlow Cup with Mr. Stocker's Sir William, an act of kindness on the part of Lord Lurgan that deserves to be noticed, as his dog was as fresh as when he started, while poor Sir William was fairly pumped out. Bab-at-the-Bowster too had thoroughly wiped out the disgrace of her solitary defeat and held a record that has never been equalled, for since the memorable Waterloo, she had won the Great Scarisbrick Cup of 128 Greyhounds, and a fortnight later the Douglas Cup for 64 all aged, on this occasion revenging herself most completely on her former conqueror Lobelia, when she showed what a great Greyhound she was, by leading her on the outside a good three lengths, and notwithstanding the severity of her recent running, administering a decisive defeat. Nor was this all, for she was at it again early in the following season, winning the Club Cup of twenty runners at the first Altcar Meeting; then over the difficult Brigg country she divided the Elsham Cup (32) with Sporting Eagle. These successes naturally created a favourable impression, but nothing could stall the public off Master M'Grath, who was freely backed on the night of the draw down to 6 to 1. Bab-at-the-Bowster, much to the disgust of many people who had taken liberties with Mr. Blanshard's nomination, was started for Mr. R. Paterson, and held the position of second favourite at 10 to 1, while a couple of Irish representatives in S.S. and Woman in Black came next. The two cracks were drawn well clear of each other, but kept gradually nearing, Bab being sadly handicapped at last by a couple of stiff undecided courses she had to run with Lady Lyons, who in the following year signallized herself by her defeat of Master M'Grath. Lobelia too had been, as of old, asserting her superiority, and she and the Scotch dog Ghillie Callum, were left in on the Thursday night to meet the cracks the following morning. The course between Lobelia and the Irish dog was a grand one, the bitch at one point having the best of it, and but for a stumble in an effort to kill on the edge of the drain she must have won, as the dog was hanging fire on the opposite bank in a decidedly suspicious manner. The moment, however, the hare crossed, and he regained possession, he made one of the grandest finishes I ever saw, and was, to the great relief of his admirers as well as to that of his noble owner, proclaimed the winner. Bab having in the meantime disposed of Ghillie Callum, who ran in wretched form, the excitement became intense when the two cracks were handed over to Raper for the final. A hare was quickly on foot, and they were despatched on perfectly even terms. When, a moment after, it was seen that the bitch had got her head in front, a great shout went up from the assembled multitude on the banks of the Alt. This seemed to shift the hare, but more probably she swerved of her own accord to take the hare bridge, on crossing which she bent decidedly to the left and gave the dog an advantage. As usual he improved his position at the drain, and Bab having to jump on the upper side of the bridge in consequence of a post being in her way, she lost the first and second turns. The moment, however, an opening presented itself she was there, and a trial, which, for rapid exchanges and brilliant work I never saw equalled, ensued, until the dog drew well clear with his hare, and finished a gallant winner by one of his dashing kills. During a pretty lengthened experience I cannot remember any course in which so much work was accomplished in so little space, the hare never being allowed to break more than a few yards after she was reached. The Purse on this occasion was won by Mr. Brocklebank's Bacchante, who beat Flying Spray, Corrie Lea, the smart bitch Carlton, Running Stream, and finally Mr. Bartholomew's Borealis, who had the foot of her, but lost her place through stumbling badly at the drain. The Purse went to Lord Sefton by the aid of Salvia, who beat in the final Mr. Carruther's Cataclysm, a fast daughter of Patent and Lady Stormont.

A variety of circumstances contributed to make the Waterloo Cup of 1870 one of the most memorable on record. For the first time since its establishment the head quarters were changed. The old Waterloo Hotel had been swept away to make room for a terminal railway station. Inconvenience it is true had long surrounded the holding of the business of the meeting in such a place, and for years it had been necessary to take a public hall outside to accommodate the numbers that wished to attend the dinner; but still one does not part with a spot around which so many associations cling, without feeling that a link has been snapped that bound us to the past, and not a few of the older members regretted the necessity for the change. The committee when at last compelled to shift, were fortunate in securing the Adelphi Hotel, which being the largest and best managed place of public entertainment in the town, afforded every convenience that could be desired, and was especially acceptable in respect that the ample bedroom accommodation enabled a vastly greater number to live at head-quarters, and so be on the spot to have the earliest information of anything that was transpiring. The meetings have ever since been held here, and under the able and courteous management of Mr. Ludlow, the frequenters of the hotel have every reason to be grateful for the splendid accommodation they enjoy. Another memorable event was the interruption of the meeting by frost, the postponement of the draw by order of the committee, and the consequent protest lodged by Mr. Borron, the principle point of which was that as neither Lord Lurgan nor Mr. Jones, two members of the Waterloo Committee, had named their greyhounds by the hour fixed in the circular for closing the entries, they should be debarred from doing so. Great excitement prevailed in the lobbies of the Adelphi when this became known, as it was at once recognised that there were some grounds for believing that the committee had exceeded their powers. A meeting of the stewards was held, at which the protest was considered, but of course set aside, and then Mr. Borron appealed to the National Club, who entered upon the question at their meeting in London in the following May. No better success attended him here, although in subsequent years the committee took care in their circulars to reserve power to deal with any emergency of a similar nature that might arise. When it was found on Wednesday morning that the frost had given way a bit, preparations were made for the draw and dinner, which for the first time was held in the magnificent ball-room connected with the hotel, and afforded the greatest satisfaction and comfort, as compared with former experience. Master M'Grath had not appeared in public from the date of his previous victory, but it was no secret that his trial courses had been run with all his old fire, and so confident were the Irish division that after 7 to 2 had been taken, an offer of 300 to 100 was instantly accepted, and for the first and probably the last time we saw a dog start in a sixty-four dog-stake, comprising the best greyhounds in the kingdom, at this unheard of price. His old opponent Bab-at-the-Bowster was here again, and had not been idle in the interim, having repeated her performance of the previous year by winning the Great Scarisbrick Cup for 128 dogs, and divided at the Scottish National the Biggar Stakes with Witchery. Her price, however, was the more reasonable one of 20 to 1, and it may be mentioned that both Bacchante and Black Huntsman were better favourites. Space will not permit me to linger over the details of the disastrous blow sustained by the backers of the favourite. When slipped with Lady Lyons, who it will be remembered tackled Bab-at-the-Bowster the previous year, 5 to 2 was freely laid on the dog, but it was quickly evident that this was not the M'Grath of former years, as he could not move with anything of the old freedom, and even after the bitch had sent the hare round to him the best he could do, was to slightly move her from her course before he stumbled and let Mr. Trevor's bitch away in possession to the Alt, where the course quickly ended. Here too M'Grath had a narrow escape of ending his career, for getting through the ice he would inevitably have been drowned but for the courage of Wilson, the Irish slipper, who plunged in and breaking the ice rescued him. Strong suspicions prevailed that the dog had been got at, and Lord Lurgan in the excitement of the moment vowed he should never run again; but fortunately for himself and all concerned, he relented the hasty decision, and he afterwards had the satisfaction of seeing him wipe out the stain of defeat by victories as meritorious as any he had achieved in his younger days. My own impression has always been that the dog had been pampered by his trainer, with the usual result of being in a measure choked with fat, and falling against a first-class greyhound like Lady Lyons he was chopped at the start. It must also be remembered that the ground was not in its usual condition, being greasy with the sudden thaw, while there was still considerable bone in it, so that he was contending under altogether different conditions from those to which he had been accustomed. Lord Lurgan very wisely withdrew him from the Purse, so that we had no further opportunity of judging his form at this time. Bab-at-the-Bowster won three courses and was then outpaced by Cataclysm, who in turn went down before Lord Binning's Bendimere, a son of Cauld Kail and Bergamot, who did many a good day's work for his noble owner, and very nearly earned the highest honours on this occasion, when he was defeated in the final by Sea Cove, who was much the fresher of the two, Lord Binning's dog having had three courses with Lady Lyons in the third round before he could get clear of the conqueror of M'Grath. Sea Cove was by Strange Idea, out of the Northumberland bitch Curiosity, and was purchased by Mr. Spinks from Mr. Hyslop of Denton Hall after she had divided a Thirty-Two Puppy Stake at Brampton, and also the Great Bothal St. Leger, for which 142 runners started. Her price on the evening of the draw was 25 to 1, and in the third round she beat a better favourite when Bacchante went down before her; subsequently Commodore and Chivalry were bowled over, and her comparatively fresh condition enabled her to have rather an easy victory over Bendimere. The great lolloping Commodore put out a good greyhound when his extra pace enabled him to defeat Bed of Stone, but Mr. Briggs's smart bitch showed what metal she was made of by the way in which she carried off the Purse, defeating in the final, after an undecided, the game little S.S. Waywarden, who had been most unluckily beaten in the Cup, rewarded his owner, Captain Watson, by the easiest of victories in the Plate; in fact so decisive did he make his courses here, that I have always considered that but for the terrific fall he had when he attempted to kill his hare in his course with Pedestrian, he could not have lost the great event. Mr. Dunlop's Pretender, a son of his celebrated dog Cardinal York, was second to him, but had really little share in the final, except to kill. This was the last Waterloo Cup that Tom Raper slipped. He had been associated with the meeting during all the years under review, and although thousands of pounds frequently depended on a proper slip, no one ever doubted Tom's perfect integrity, while the masterly way in which he handled the leash has not been excelled, scarcely equalled, by any slipper of past or present times.

As has been already stated, Lord Lurgan thought better of his hasty resolution, and putting M'Grath once more in training, he brought him out for the Brownlow Cup in the following October, when he met some of the best form of the season, defeating Old Rosy Maid, Precentor, Smuggler, and Fritz (late Surveyor), a bye falling to his lot in the third round through Double or Quits being drawn lame. The course between him and Smuggler was perhaps the closest he ever ran, and but for his superior cleverness at the ditches (and in this particular no greyhound has ever approached him), he must have suffered defeat, the Scotch dog being equally clever and even more resolute throughout the course. This victory, however, kept his name in the fore-front, and when the draw for the great event took place, although he was now at the close of his fourth season, he was installed an equal favourite with Bendimere at the price of 10 to 1. There was this year no doubt about his form; it is true, Eyes of Fire had the rare good luck to make an undecided with him, and was drawn in his favour, receiving the half of his winnings, but it was a cruel piece of bad fortune for the Irish dog, as he led his opponent a long way and got thrown out at the ditch in an effort to kill his hare, which whipped round at the moment and forced him to go over to save himself. Wharfinger was the first to succumb, and in the course with Mr. Wilson's dog he performed only moderately; but his defeats of Rocketter, Letter T., Black Knight, and Pretender, in the final, were worthy of his best days, one of his old and dashing kills sufficing to send the flag up for him in the deciding course. Pretender, who got into the final, was a puppy by Ewesdale out of Peeress, who had distinguished himself by dividing the Newmarket Champion Puppy Stakes, and in all his courses here, displayed great merit, beating as he did Charles XII., Musical, Buxom Lass, Bessie Bell, and Deodora's Daughter, in quite decisive style. Bendimere, who was second favourite, fell against Bed of Stone in the draw, and so evenly were they matched that three times the cap came off, and at last Lord Haddington drew Bendimere. It seemed an unnecessary punishment of two good greyhounds, but the absence of Mr. Briggs from the meeting prevented an arrangement being come to, and so the chances of both were sacrificed, as the bitch went down in the next round, being defeated by Fancy. Black Knight ran a good greyhound at this meeting, and but for his two undecideds with Chameleon he might have had a better chance with Master M'Grath, but the Irish wonder rarely ran a better course than the one when he defeated Mr. Borron's dog, and the manner in which he recovered possession at the road, after being thrown out, was a treat to see. Smuggler (three times winner of the Douglas Cup), was a competitor in this stake, and was pretty freely backed at 20 to 1, but he failed to show to advantage over the Altcar country, and after suffering defeat in the Cup at the hands of Spectre, only raised one flag in the Purse. Chameleon, Bessie Bell, Liberty, and Letter T. all won three courses. Cataclysm went down in the third round, as did Waywarden, the winner of the Plate in the previous year. The Purse fell to Mr. Legh's Latest News, who began with a bye, and afterwards defeated Fritz, Lauderdale, Master Birnie, and in the final Mr. R. Jardine's Favorita, by Improver, out of Amy, who had previously beaten Bendimere, Margrave, Confidence, and Sixty-nine. Bed of Stone, as already mentioned, went out of the Cup in the second round, but made some amends for this by winning the Plate, thus placing the second of the classic events to the credit of Mr. Briggs. Mr. Dunlop was again the runner up, this time with Duke of York, who was by Cardinal York, out of Lovebird (a sister of Lid-dington). Countryman, who has since become rather famous at the stud, won two courses in the Plate, as did Dr. Dougall's smart bitch Avonside.

This was the last time Master M'Grath ever ran in public, and I cannot pass from the notice of a meeting at which he so greatly distinguished himself, without remarking that his career at the stud was only a brief one, as he died within two years, of heart disease, to the great regret of his noble owner and all who love a good greyhound. After his third victory Her Most Gracious Majesty expressed a desire to see this canine wonder, and the dog was taken to Windsor Castle, where he had audience of the Queen and the Royal Family. There may have been faster greyhounds, there may have been as clever, there may even have been as good killers (which is doubtful), but certainly there has not been in modern times one that combined all those high qualifications in such absolute perfection. He was by no means a remarkable dog to look at; indeed, he had rather an insignificant appearance, but he was possessed of enormous power in his hind quarters, great freedom of action, and the perfection of style for an Altcar country. His vast superiority as a ditcher was frequently evinced, for however he might be tied for pace in the run from slips, the moment a ditch was reached he was many lengths in front. And how often he chose this moment for his supreme effort! I shall never forget the kill he effected in his course with Randolph in the Waterloo Cup of 1869; the hare had landed clear over the ditch, and was well on the move again, when with one wild swoop he sprang a dozen feet clear of the ditch, and nailed puss, though it seemed impossible to reach her. In a subsequent course at Robb's Ferry, which he ran with Mr. Eltringham's Precentor, he happened to pass quite close to me just before reaching the hare, and I was struck with the prominence of his eyes; they appeared to be starting from his head, and as he approached the poor hare the latter seemed to anticipate her doom, for a moment she bent to the right, then to the left, then, apparently magnetised, she almost stood still, while, with his well-known dash, he ended her career. We cannot know too much of such a greyhound, and I therefore take the liberty of quoting from the "Coursing Calendar," Vol. 21, the following measurements taken by an experienced courser, aided by Mr. Jackson, Veterinary Surgeon, Lurgan:—

MASTER M'GRATH.

The following record of the performances and amounts won by Master M'Grath and Bab-at-the-Bowster, although not strictly a matter connected with the Waterloo Cup, the immediate subject under review, cannot fail to be interesting to many people. The amounts were verified to me at the time by Lord Lurgan and Mr. Blanshard:—

Leaving the mighty dead, however, let me follow the further fortunes of the Waterloo Cup, which in 1872 fell to a real good greyhound in Bed of Stone, who on the two previous years had given a taste of her quality by winning the Purse and the Plate. It is very surprising how blind men frequently are who follow public sports! In greyhound coursing, as in horse racing, it is wise to give an animal a chance again over ground he has once shown himself adapted to. By following this rule the astute racing man is often rewarded, and so will it happen in coursing; but on this occasion we had a first-class performer over the ground left out in the cold, and on the night of the draw 40 to 1 went begging about her. Chameleon was first favourite at 10 to 1, while a point more was accepted about the Irish bitch Double or Quits, and next to these came Pevensey, Peasant Boy, and Charming Belle. Fine weather favoured the meeting, notwithstanding which there was a general downfall of the favourites, and after the second round, only Peasant Boy remained, and he continued his victorious career until he met Bed of Stone for the final. Mr. Briggs's bitch first met Eyes of Fire, who in the previous year had been drawn in favour of M'Grath after an undecided, but although he was the equal of his opponent on this occasion for pace, he could not work with her, and she quickly disposed of him. Princess, Grigg, Lurline, and Iron Shell went down in succession before the smart daughter of Portland met Peasant Boy, who for a hundred yards raised the hopes of his numerous backers by showing pace, but the bitch putting on the steam, as the hare slightly favoured her, raced past, leaving him as though he had been standing; and although she did not run the course in her usual careful style, a few beautiful points before killing carried her through a decisive winner. The victory was immensely popular, for notwithstanding that the weight of money was on the dog, Mr. Briggs was such a favourite with all classes, that a universal feeling of satisfaction at the result prevailed, one old friend of mine testifying to his respect by throwing himself down on the bank of a ditch, and relieving his pent up feelings by, as he expressed it, "a guid greet." Iron Shell, a daughter of Fusilier, very creditably scored four times, while the Irish dog S. W., about whom almost any price might have been had on the night of the draw, also stood in till Friday morning, and even then his conqueror, Peasant Boy, had precious little to spare in the contest. The four that fell in the fourth round were all bitches—Magenta, Sweet Sound, Charm, and Lurline; while Glenavon, Blarney, Letter T., Bessie Bell, Dreaded Falcon, and Smuggler met with defeat earlier in the fight. The first favourite, Chameleon, was drawn for the opening course, and was the first to succumb, being led and decisively beaten by Glenavon. In the Purse, however, she showed to better advantage, and the daughter of King Death made some atonement to Mr. Lister by crediting him with that stake, beating Deodora's Daughter, Marathon, Manslayer, Vizier, and in the final Mr. J. Lawton's Liberty, another son of King Death, who met some good greyhounds in Chivalry, George's Glory, Lady Grafton, and Bachanal. Mr. Jones's Jewess took the Plate, and Mr. Clark's Bessie, nominated by Mr. Chesshyre, was second.

For the next Waterloo Cup, Peasant Boy, who had run such a good second to Bed of Stone, was made a hot favourite, the ridiculously short price of 100 to 15 being freely accepted about him. Wandering Willie, who had been showing good form in Scotland, was next fancied, and after this pair came Rugby, Bed of Stone, and Chameleon. The first favourite justified the confidence of his supporters by the style in which he cut down all opposition, until he met with Mr. Jardine's Muriel in the final. Then we were treated to a sight such as we hope never to see again on any coursing field. Mr. Warwick, who had officiated with much acceptance as judge of the Waterloo Meeting for thirteen years, had in a moment of indiscretion, accepted an invitation to judge a private trial of the favourite, some time before the meeting, and this getting wind, the uncharitable public rushed to the conclusion that the dog was to be pulled through, and in this opinion they felt fortified, when, on Friday morning, Mr. Warwick at the end of a pretty long spin between Muriel and Magenta, which most people considered was well won by the former, pulled off his cap. As the dogs were placed in slips for the final, an angry and excited crowd burst into the field where Mr. Warwick was stationed, and surrounding him during the time the course was being run, prevented him having a fair chance of judging the merits of the competitors. This was greatly to be regretted, as the trial was such a near one that calm judgment and an uninterrupted view would have been much more satisfactory to all who love "a fair field and no favour." The moment they were slipped Muriel on a very strong outside showed in front, and increasing her lead, made a most meritorious first turn three lengths ahead. From this point, however, she had only an occasional exchange until nearing the crowd in the field, when she got possession, and was extremely busy for a short time before she killed. I was well placed, and had a good view of the course, and have always thought that the bitch honestly won it, but there were many people who considered that the menacing character of the crowd influenced Mr. Warwick in his decision. Be this as it may, the circumstances were fatal to Mr. Warwick's position in connection with the Waterloo Cup, and this was the last time he officiated at Altcar. Magenta and Madeline were third and fourth, while among good greyhounds that went down in the earlier ties were Crossus, Satire, Cymbal, Royalist, Minute Gun, Magnano, Chameleon, Dreaded Falcon, Bed of Stone, &c. The Purse was divided between Mr. R. Jardine's Joan, by Improver, out of Amy, nominated by Mr. G. B. Irving, and Mr. R. B. Carruthers's Contango, by Cashier, out of Bab-at-the-Bowster, while the Plate went to Ireland by the aid of Royal Mary, a wonderfully smart daughter of Grand Warden, nominated by Mr. Swinburne, but belonging to Mr. W. T. Dunbar, jun. Mr. Thompson's Tyrant, by Cock Robin, was second, being nominated by Mr. G. W. Mould.

The following year Mr. Hedley, who had been rapidly coming to the front as a judge, was elected to fill the position at Waterloo, and he discharged the duties so satisfactorily that he still continues to be the trusted official whose decisions settle the mighty interests at stake every returning year. Mr. Hedley may be said to have been "dyed in the wool," to use a Scotch expression, for from his earliest years he wandered the fields with his father and his bosom friend Mr. John Jardine on every occasion that the dogs were to be tried. In those days private coursing was much more common than it is now, and with two such mentors it would have been strange if he had not learned all the intricacies of the sport. But in addition to the opportunities enjoyed, he had the capacity to comprehend the merits of a course, and to the most perfect coolness, united a quickness of conception and decision that has not in my day been equalled. No man has ever approached him in his power of judgment over a difficult country, and the confidence in his own ability enables him not unfrequently to detect merit where a less close observer would fail, and in consequence we have fewer of those harassing undecided trials that used to be the bane of the coursers' existence. It is needless to say that no breath of suspicion has ever sullied the integrity of Mr. Hedley, who deservedly enjoys the confidence of all classes, and I hope will long continue to do so. Passing to notice the Waterloo Cup of 1874, let me remark that this was a great outsider's year, for although Magnano had performed very creditably the previous year, when he beat Lignite and Bed of Stone before going down in a fairly contested course with Magenta; and on the only occasion he had been out subsequently had won three courses at the South of England Club Meeting; these performances were forgotten, and 1000 to 7 was the offer on the night of the draw. Peasant Boy, who had not been in public since his memorable fight with Muriel, was again first favourite at 7 to 1, while Fugitive, son of Cock Robin and Fortuna, who had divided the Wigtownshire St. Leger, 77 runners, and the Derby Stakes (32) at Border Union, was second, at 12 to 1. Muriel found supporters at 100 to 12, and her kennel companion Progress at 16 to 1. Magnano fell against Muriel the first round, and with 2 to 1 on the bitch, she was led and cleverly beaten. He then in turn disposed of British Crown, Tyrant (after an undecided), Sir William Don, Fugitive, and in the final the Irish dog Surprise, who was even a greater outsider than his conqueror, he having started at the extreme figure of 1000 to 5. Diacticus and Fugitive were the third and fourth, and those beaten in the previous round were Willie Galway, Sir William Don, Amethyst, and Bannockburn. Peasant Boy was defeated in the second round by Surprise, and was withdrawn from the Plate. Muriel, who ran very moderately in the Cup, came out in different form on the

Thursday morning, and showing a bit of her old style, defeated the highly bred Riot Act (by Master M'Grath out of Lady Stormont), Royal Mary, the winner of the previous year's Plate, Heart's Delight, and Success, before dividing with her kennel companion Progress, who likewise showed marked improvement on her first day's running. The Plate was secured for Captain Ellis by the aid of Mr. E. Gibson's Gallant Foe, who beat White Slave, another of Mr. Jardine's team, in the final.

It was generally supposed that a wonderfully smart puppy had come to the front when Mr. Smith's Sirius, by his Smuggler out of Stellaria, divided the Newmarket Champion Puppy Stake of 1874, showing marked superiority over all opponents; and as his only previous performance was in a 64 at Lurgan, where he ran up to Mr. Hornby's Haddo, his record was very good. 100 to 12 was the price about him on the night of the draw, 10 to 1 being taken about Fugitive, and 100 to 8 Honeymoon, and next to these came Muriel, Amity, and Ruby. The backers of first favourites were again completely discomfited, the Liddington blood showing that it was not adapted to the Altcar country. Sirius was beaten in his first course by Dick M'Grath, and the best he could do was to win a couple of courses in the Plate. Fugitive, the second favourite, beat Surprise (the runner-up of the previous year), and Barnaby, before being put out by Lucetta. It fared better, however, with the third favourite, who was going in fine style, and beating in succession Master M'Turk, Pearl, Indian Star (1), Darcarolle, Lucetta, and Corby Castle, landed herself an easy winner, while once more the wild shout of the enthusiastic Irishman was heard over the Altcar plains. The position obtained by Corby Castle was a surprise to everybody, as he was a dog literally without reputation, but he went here with a great deal of fire, winning all his courses well; and even with the winner making such a good fight that at one time he had decidedly the best of the course, the superior finish of the bitch alone enabling her to snatch victory out of the fire. Lucetta and Hawthorn were third and fourth, while Battery, Handel, Darcarolle, and Musidora all got into the fourth round. Gilderoy, by Crossfell out of Gaudy Poll, was the hero of the Purse, beating Candid Kate, Master M'Turk, Sirius, and Surprise, and in the final Lord Stair's Straduarius, by Master Birnie out of Swivel. Mr. D. J. Paterson's Lord Glendyne, by Smuggler out of Fanny Warfield, nominated by Mr. Allison, secured the Plate, beating in the final the Irish bitch Wild Norah, by Master Frederick out of Wee Lassie.

By this time the strenuous exertions of Lord Lurgan had brought the meeting established by him over the Raughlin Meadows at Lurgan, to a state of perfection that placed it second only in importance to the Waterloo itself. Three sixty-fours comprised the programme, and the Brownlow Cup, with a magnificent piece of plate added, attracted the best greyhounds in the kingdom. Honeymoon was indulged with an opportunity of distinguishing herself on "M'Grath's ground," and well did she acquit herself. The form at this particular meeting was good, embracing as it did Donald, Death, Haddo, Birkdale, Sirius, Master M'Turk, Sweetlips, Scuffle, Avon Queen, Surprise, Hopeful Joe, Shy Boy, Scray, Dyzagara, Regalia, Mab, and Royal Consort. Honeymoon, however, maintained her superiority, and beating Mr. Hearne's

Heath in the final, Mr. Hutchison became the happy owner of the Cup for 1875. With such evidence of her form to build upon, it was natural that she should become a hot favourite for the next Waterloo, and accordingly we find she was at the short price of 11 to 2 on the night of the draw. Greenburn, fresh from her victory in the Buccleuch Cup, where she beat Lord Glendyne in the final, was second, 100 to 8 being the best offer, while Hematite was at 100 to 6, and King David at 20 to 1. Donald started at 50 to 1, and Lord Glendyne at 66 to 1. Honeymoon was not long in showing us that she retained her old dash, for although she was led by Warren Hastings until the hare came to her, it was the result of a mistake she made at the drain, and all through a good trial she gave evidence of great superiority. Her next opponent was Mr. Hornby's Handicraft, at this time one of the smartest bitches in training. On this occasion, however, she did not show her usual steadiness; and although she had the foot of the crack, the latter fairly outworked her. In Lucetta she met another opponent, who was justly looked upon as a greyhound of considerable merit; but although the Scotch bitch flattered her backers by showing the way until near the hare, the Irish bitch struggled past and snatched the turn from her, and shortly afterwards a bad fall threw Lucetta out of the race. The Irish dog Donald had been surely working his way forward, and now met the crack on a piece of awkward ground down by Gore House. Both greyhounds were trained in the same kennel, and great was the interest excited by their coming together. They ran clearly on their merits, and the dog was not long in showing that on this occasion he was the better greyhound, leading for first turn, and recovering himself twice in the course, when he got awkwardly thrown in a style that proved him an adept at ditching, and when he finished up with a good drive and the kill, he was an easy winner. Huron, who had been purchased by the Duke of Hamilton, and represented his Grace in this the first Waterloo Cup, for which he held a nomination, was the next opponent of Donald; but although he led for a bit, he was passed before the hare was reached, and in a good trial well beaten. Donald had now to try conclusions with Mr. D. J. Paterson's Lord Glendyne, who had been very severely run with The Squatter in the previous round, and who had the further misfortune to be dragged into the ditch through Luff falling therein. The final was a hollow win for the Irish dog, Lord Glendyne being quite unable to make an effort. That night after the victory Dr. Dougall gave Mr. Douglas £300 for Donald, and he never ran another course in public, being put to the stud, where he was greatly patronised, and paid his way handsomely, notwithstanding that he died comparatively young. As already mentioned, The Squatter and Huron were third and fourth, while Honeymoon, Ben Barr, Corby Castle, and Alice Kelly each got three courses, and among others not mentioned who went down earlier on were Banker, Surprise, Coquette, True Blue, Sherwood Daisy, Diligent, Sister May, Birkdale, Inspector, Dick McGrath, and Beardwood. Mr. T. M. Goodlake, nominating Mr. R. F. Wilkins's Wellingtonia, won the Purse, and the Earl of Sefton was second with Suspense, next to this pair being Mr. Brocklebank's Barleycorn and Mr. Borron's Bit of Shamrock. In the Plate, Handicraft, who so nearly put out Honeymoon in the Cup, ran in good form, and in the deciding course showed marked superiority over Midnight, a puppy belonging to Dr. Richardson, of King Death fame, possessed of fair pace and a ready mouth.

Donald being, as I have explained, moved out of the way, we had to look elsewhere for a favourite for the Cup of 1877, but no very prominent one turned up. The best offer against Braw Lass was 100 to 7, and Barabbas, who had won the Sefton Stakes for dog puppies at the November meeting of the Altcar Club, in gallant style, had, at 100 to 6, a slight call over Master Sam, Rondeletia, and Hematite, who were all backed at 100 to 5. Coomassie, who had divided the Oaks at Beck-hampton for 32 puppies, the Newmarket Champion Puppy Stake for 64, and won the Newmarket Stakes in January, 22 runners, all ages, was allowed to start at 40 to 1, being generally considered too small to have much chance over this ground, and yet probably, with the exception of Master M'Grath, there never was a greyhound better adapted to it. Among her own party there was a good deal of quiet confidence, and all the good money that could be picked up, at the price quoted, was secured. Her first opponent Cæsar was easily disposed of, but she met a different greyhound when she fell against Master Sam, who was, bar his one fault of inability to kill his hares, one of the best dogs we have seen in recent times. Of course, he led her, but the hare went from him just before being reached, and the "little fawn," who was at his quarters, spurted forward, and taking possession, retained her place as puss tried to double, and quickly effected the kill. Aunt Fleda had no chance with her, and Conster far less. On the Friday morning she fell against the Irish bitch Serapis, who was fairly out-paced, and the ready mouth of Coomassie quickly settled matters in her favour. The favourite Braw Lass had throughout the stake been pretty heavily run, and had in turn defeated the smart Hornpipe (Mr. Watson's), Bother, Conjux (1), Master Banrigh, and Kilkenny, getting into a ditch and having a cold bath at the end of her course with the latter. Still, she was not to be easily disposed of, and for a considerable distance she held her own with her fresh opponent, who at last drew clear, and scored first and second turns. Braw Lass then got in for a couple of drives, but running out, Coomassie, by one of her brilliant kills, finished the course, and became the heroine of 1877. Serapis and Kilkenny were third and fourth, while Master Banrigh, Beardwood, Conster, and Edict were all winners of three courses, and Haddo, Gallant Foe, Queen Sybil, Busy Bee, Conjux, and Aunt Fleda were among the winners of two courses. Mr. Carruthers's smart bitch Change, by Contango out of Hannah, secured the Purse, beating Hornpipe in the final, the Irish dog, although possessed of plenty of pace, rushing about in this course very wildly. Barabbas got three courses, and Huron, who had won four in the Cup last year, was in the last four for the Purse on this occasion. Banker, a great dog over the Netherby country, could only win a couple of courses in the Purse here, and The Squatter, who was in the same class with Huron last year, raised a solitary flag in the Purse, when he beat Bit of Shamrock. Poacher, a son of Peasant Boy, credited Mr. D. J. Paterson with the Plate, beating in the deciding course Mr. G. Carruthers's Coupland Lass, by Cashier out of Canzonette.

Coomassie, who a fortnight before the meeting had become the property of Mr. T. Lay, the well-known bookmaker, at the price of two hundred and fifty pounds, did not again appear in public until the following Waterloo, when an arrangement was come to with Mr. Stocken that the bitch should run in his nomination, that gentleman allowing the party forty-eight hours to execute their commission, immediately after which he publicly intimated that she would represent him. Although the time was limited, and the market highly sensitive, a considerable commission was worked at a fairly remunerative price, and from this hour the nomination continued in great request, the starting price being 9 to 1. Braw Lass was installed second favourite at a point more, and next to the two cracks came Deceit at 15 to 1, and the Irish bitch Wedding Tour at 20 to 1. The training of the favourite had been entrusted to Mr. J. Shaw, of Northallerton, and it subsequently transpired that he had a most anxious time of it, for after the money had all been got on, she went amiss from sexual causes. This would have disheartened most men, but it only caused Mr. Shaw to redouble his attentions, and not only did he succeed in maintaining the secret, but he actually brought her to slips without any one suspecting the condition she had been in. In her first course she met a fair greyhound in Joy Bell, who proved herself pretty smart in the short work, but the extra pace of the favourite enabled her to score the strong points, and win with considerable ease. Penrith was her next opponent, and here again pace more than cleverness served her, and for the first time I heard a whisper of the cause of her unsteadiness. She certainly did not show to the same advantage she had done the previous year, and the style of her running was just what might have been expected from the condition she had been in. On the second morning she met the Irish bitch Dear Shamrock, who, getting away on the inside, made the first turn a good two lengths in front, and could she have steadied herself might have disposed of the crack, but she was a bit unlucky in the course, and throwing herself out when she did get placed, Coomassie went merrily to work, and wound up with a fine kill. Handicraft was the next to meet her, and so well did the daughter of Improver acquit herself that when she finished with a kill, the cap came off. At their final attempt Coomassie was on her best behaviour, and scoring both the run up and the death, as well as a fair share of the intermediate work, won with a good bit in hand. On the Friday morning Whistling Dick went to slips with her, and it was thought he might hold her for pace; except to kill, however, he had little or no share in the course, which was beautifully run by the winner. Zazel, the property of Lord Fermoy, had started at the outside price of 1000 to 10, but the daughter of Master Frederick should not have been at such a false price, as she was a winner of two stakes earlier in the season. Here she defeated Teesdale, Poacher, Boys o' Boys, Aden, and Rival Belle, after a short undecided; her final victory was, however, dearly bought, as a rare hare gave them such a towelling that she was in no condition whatever to face the fresh Coomassie; and although the hare momentarily favoured her, Coomassie would not be denied, but went round her opponent and scored a most meritorious first turn. Keeping her place, she rattled in a few points very merrily, and then sending the hare round to Zazel, the latter had a good chance, but brought her mouth too quickly into play. Coomassie thus for the second time was greeted as the winner of the Waterloo Cup. Braw Lass, who was second favourite, secured two courses, but was then beaten by Rival Belle in a good trial, in which the Hereford bitch showed pace. Lord Douglas, who had divided the Netherby Cup in the previous autumn, won three courses, but had likewise to succumb to Mr. Haywood's grand bitch. Deceit ran creditably, winning three courses, as did Handicraft and Aden. Adelaide, nominated by Mr. Trevor, won the Purse, beating in the deciding course Mr. Boote's puppy, Scorns Repose, which was sold at Lucas's on the Tuesday to Mr. J. Hinks for 90 guineas, to be delivered after the meeting. Sasin and Early Morn were third and fourth, and Queen Sybil, Hie My Nannie, Ben-y-Glass, and Conster each won two courses. The Plate fell to Mr. Postle's Palm Flower, a daughter of Countryman, nominated by Mr. Colman, beating in the final Mr. Borron's Banner Blue, by Black Knight out of Hit or Miss.

As it turned out, this was the last appearance in public of Coomassie. Following the tactics of the previous year, she was held in reserve, and put in training for the Cup for the third time. The winter was exceptionally severe, and her trainer had not for a long time had an opportunity of giving her a spin, but a slight break having occurred, a favourable spot was selected for a trial, in which, unfortunately, she sustained an accident; by breaking a small bone in one of her legs that ended her career as a public performer. She was undoubtedly the smallest greyhound that ever won the Waterloo Cup, and, with the exception of Master M'Grath, was probably the best, as she united in a surprising manner all the requisites for a successful career over the Waterloo country, besides satisfactorily proving that she could be relied upon on such exacting ground as Newmarket, where hares are possessed of stamina to test the staying powers of the stoutest bred greyhound. Considering the condition in which she came to slips, her last performance must be looked upon as her greatest, and reflects no small credit upon the skilful manner in which she was prepared for the contest. It will be interesting to study the annexed particulars of her breeding, weight, and measurements, extracted from the "Coursing Calendar," Vol. 41.

COOMASSIE.

Coomassie, a light fawn bitch (second season), by Celebrated out of Queen (whelped March 10, 1875), was bred by Mr. J. Cafley, of Runham, near Yarmouth. The dam of Queen was Cottage Girl, by Monarch out of Nell, the property of Mr. Bulwer; she ran years ago at a local meeting near Yarmouth. Magic, I believe, belonged to Mr. Pollard, of Burgh St. Peter. The sire of Celebrated was Mr. Allen's f w d Albatross, by Tullochgorum (own brother to King Death) out of Cygnet, by Brewer out of Glimpse at Glory (an own sister to Gaudy Poll), and through this Coomassie has the same excellent strain of blood as Bed of Stone had. Of the dogs now at the stud, Gilderoy possesses this strain, as he was by Crossfell out of Gaudy Poll. Queen was by Captain Dod's r w d Lord Derby, by May Morning out of Lady Bathilde. The dam of Celebrated was Mr. Cafley's Caribella, by Magic out of Regalia. Magic was by Joe out of Topsy. The measurement of Coomassie, corrected on February 25 by Mr. J. T. Shaw, Northallerton, is as follows:—

HEAD.—From tip of snout to joining on to neck, 9in. ; girth of head between eyes and ears, 13in. ; girth of snout, 7in. ; distance between the eyes, 2in.

NECK.—Length of joining on from head to shoulders, 7½in. ; girth round neck, 13in.

BACK.—From neck to base of tail, 22½in. ; length of tail, 16½in.

Hips.—Length of loin from junction of last rib to hipbone, 8½in. ; length from hipbone to socket of thigh joint, 7½in.

FORE LEG.—From base of two middle nails to fetlock joint, 2½in. ; from fetlock joint to elbow joint, 10½in. ; from elbow joint to shoulder blade, 11½in. ; thickness of the fore leg before the elbow, 6in.

HIND LEG.—From hock to stifle joint, 10in. ; from stifle to top of hipbone, 10½in. ; girth of ham part of thigh, 15½in. ; thickness of second thigh below stifle, 7½in.

BODY.—Girth round depth of chest, 27in. ; girth round the loins, 19½in. Weight the day before starting for the Cup, 44½lb.

It will be seen, on comparing last season's return with the above table, that Coomassie has grown since last year.

Before leaving this notice of the Waterloo Cup of 1878, I may remark that it was the first occasion on which Tom Wilkinson acted as slipper, and he acquitted himself so well that he has been continued in the appointment ever since, showing admirable skill in judging distance, great freedom in delivery, strength, and agility in getting well on the line, united to patience in selecting his hares, and thorough integrity of character.

With Coomassie thus disposed of it was quite natural that Zazel should be kept in view for the Waterloo Cup of 1879, and accordingly she was installed first favourite at 9 to 1. In the meantime fresh candidates had appeared, and the form which Lady Lizzie, a puppy by Sir Charles out of Lizzie, had shown by dividing the Appleby Cup at Barton-on-Humber, the Newmarket Champion Puppy Stakes, and the Brighton Cup at the Plumpton New Year Meeting, naturally drew attention to her great chance, which was estimated at the comparatively short price of 11 to 1. Dear Erin and Doon were next in demand, so that Ireland had the honour of supplying three out of the first four favourites. The winner was not among them, however, and a greyhound, about whose chance the extravagant odds of 1000 to 6 was laid on the night of the draw, became the hero of the meeting. How it came about that Misterton was allowed to occupy such a forlorn position in the betting will puzzle the student of public form the longer he looks at it. Here was one of the best bred greyhounds of his day, who had only been twice in public before, and on one of these occasions in the Newmarket Champion Puppy Stakes he won four courses, and then led High Seal three lengths, and for a long time never let her score ; indeed, until he was accidentally thrown out at the belt of firs, she had never been in it, and it was only one of these demons of hares that are frequently to be found at Newmarket, that enabled the Duke of Hamilton's bitch to snatch victory out of the fire. Yet scores of people who were present and saw this refused to win a fortune by investing a few sovereigns ! Misterton's first opponent was Witenia, whom he disposed of in a rather loosely run course, but in which he had plenty to spare. Lady Lizzie was the next, and here his great pace soon settled matters, for getting well up in front he killed a weak hare at the first stroke, thus disposing of the second favourite. Blackheath having to be drawn, Misterton fell in for a bye, in which he got on to a fresh hare, and had a pretty stiff course, and then came against Wood Nymph, who had got a couple of undecided courses in the previous round with Shasta—her bad luck (or rather in this case it might be called good luck), stuck to her, for the hare, doubling back from the dog, who scored the first turn, she quickly settled it and brought the cap off. Wood Nymph being drawn on arrangement, he now fell against Regal Court, who had been showing fine form all through the stake, but well as Mr. Reed's bitch was running, she was no match for Misterton, who exhibited in this course more cleverness than he had previously displayed, and when he wound up with a fine kill he was an easy winner. The final was left to be fought out with Mr. Carruthers's Commerce, who had most creditably gained her forward position, having beaten The Runner, Hamlet, Camus, Queen Sybil, and Plunger. So well was the bitch going that it looked odds upon her, and as long as the hare went straight she showed the pace, but before being reached, puss went to the dog, and shortly afterwards, when she really had a chance Misterton rolled her over, and getting well away, won a trial which could not be said to be satisfactory, as it left a strong doubt upon many people's minds that luck more than real merit had to do with the victory. Among well-known greyhounds not mentioned above, who succumbed in the earlier ties of this Cup, may be mentioned, Ben Cruachan, Willie Miller, Dont be Headstrong, Debdon Belle, Market Day, Camus, Rinaldo, Star of Oaken, Wood Reeve, &c. The Purse went to Ireland by the aid of Dear Erin, who beat Waterwitch, Skipworth, Blackbeard, Dolly Mayflower (1 dr.), and in the final, Boys o' Boys, who had previously defeated Master Owen, Whistling Dick, Barabbas, and Sutler. Mr. Marfleet's Musical Box, by Handel out of Spicebox, secured the Plate, beating in the final the grand-looking Shepherdess, who was running in Mr. Darlinson's nomination. I must not pass from the notice of this meeting without recalling that it suffered interruption on Thursday through a heavy fall of snow that had taken place during the night. Fortunately on Thursday night we had a change, and the running was resumed on Friday, and concluded on Saturday.

Coming to 1880 we find that although Misterton had only been once out in the interim, and then ran second to Grandboro' for the Brighton Stakes of 32 dogs at Plumpton, he had to put up with third place in the wagering. Opinion was greatly divided on the merits of the Earl of Haddington's two greyhounds, Haidee and Honeywood. His lordship made no secret that he considered the bitch the best, while most good judges held by the more recent form displayed by the dog in winning the Culhorn Cup at Stranraer, dividing the Netherby Cup at Border Union with his kennel companion, Honey Buzzard, as well as the good finish he made the previous season when he won the Sefton Stakes at Altcar. Still Haidee was the better favourite, 11 to 1 being her starting price, while Honeywood was backed for all that could be got on at 100 to 8. Misterton, at a point more, had a good following, while Dalcardo, Lady Lizzie, Truthful and Decorator were next in demand. Plunger (who had in the interim been sold to Mr. Hinks), notwithstanding his forward position last year, and the good fight he made of it with Commerce, was at 100 to 1, while Grandboro', the conqueror of Misterton, was at the forlorn price of 200 to 1. Such are a few of the vagaries of betting! As very often happens, the favourite got bowled over in the first round, a bungle at the drain when leading proving fatal to her chance. Lady Lizzie, who was again backed for a mint of money, fared worse than the previous year, for when she had well beaten Decorator she broke her leg, and, to make matters worse, the hare lived long enough to let the dog win the money for which she had been backed in the course. Honeywood, who was named by Mr. R. B. Carruthers, easily disposed of Whorlton, and in the subsequent ties beat Wood Reeve, M'Pherson, Market Day and Surpriser, then in the final, fell against Plunger, who had beaten Sulphur, Truthful, Devastation, Run Along and Nellie Miller. Since the deciding course between Muriel and Peasant Boy no such exciting trial has taken place at Altcar as the one we were now to witness. In some respects it was a parallel to it, for the Scotch dog took a grand lead and made a brilliant beginning, spinning round his opponent twice, and doing as he liked with him until he got displaced through a dog-lifter jumping up in front of him, after which he scarcely made an effort, and the hare breaking away down the field, with Plunger in possession, Mr. Hinks's dog became so busy before the course finished at the embankment, that shouts went up on all hands for him, and the backers of the favourite had a few anxious moments, great being their relief when Mr. Hedley was seen to pull out the white handkerchief. It was certainly a very tight fit, and to this day many people think the English dog had something to spare, but the grand beginning made by Honeywood was ill to wipe out, and unquestionably the better greyhound won. Encyclical and Star of Woodcote got three courses each, while in addition to those mentioned, Manuella, Hamish, Lighthouse, Coquette, Barefoot, and Stitch in Time won two. Shepherdess, who was second for the Plate the previous year, and who was well backed on this occasion for the event, won the Purse, beating Clyde Rover, Honey Buzzard, Barabbas, Fleur-de-Lis, and in the final Mr. Dixon's Dalcado, nominated by Mr. Deighton, Mr. Dixon's dog having in the earlier ties put out Cuban, Whorlton, Harold, and Willow Pattern. Mr. Douglas, who took the Purse last year with Dear Erin, secured the Plate now with Debonnaire, a fast daughter of Master Sam and Death, and after the meeting sold her to Mr. Pilkington for one hundred sovereigns. Strange to say Mr. Binning, who was second to him for the Purse last year, occupied the same position in the Plate this, his representative being Mr. Trevor's Truthful. Grandboro' and Palm Flower both got two courses, and Duenna, Herzegovina, Tourist, and The Squaw, one each. Misterton, who was severely run in his first course with Ben Cruachan, was put out of the Cup in the second round by Devastation, and was withdrawn from the Plate, Truthful thereby getting a bye.

Lord Haddington's kennel was in great form this season, and his running first and second for each of the important stakes at the Border Union Meeting has, so far as I know, never been equalled. It was therefore not surprising that he should furnish four competitors for this year's Cup, but only one of these survived the first round, while, as if to pile up the agony, the favourite Haidee, came against her kennel companion Honey Buzzard, in the Purse, and was not only led, but beaten fair and square by the dog. Few better greyhounds than Haidee have ever been slipped in an enclosed country, and her brilliant victory in the Netherby Cup of 1878 justified Lord Haddington's confidence in her, especially as it was backed by a good private trial; but she had been for eighteen months in retirement, and doubtless the strain of preparation for such an important engagement was too much for her.

I append the measurement of Honeywood, which will be valuable to compare with that of the others already given.

HONEYWOOD.

The measurement of Honeywood kindly furnished by his trainer, A. Grant, is as follows :-

HEAD.—From tip of snout to joining on to neck, 9½in. ; girth of head between eyes and ears, 15½in. ; girth of snout, 9in. ; distance between the eyes, 2in.

NECK.—Length of joining on from head to shoulders, 9½in. ; girth round neck, 14½in.

BACK.—From neck to base of tail, 23½in. ; length of tail, 20in.

HIPS.—Length of loin from junction of last rib to hip bone, 7½in. ; length of hip bone to socket of thigh joint, 7½in.

FORE LEG.—From base of two middle nails to fetlock joint, 6½in. ; from fetlock joint to elbow joint, 10½in. ; from elbow joint to shoulder blade, 13in. ; thickness of the fore leg before the elbow, 7in.

HIND LEG.—From hock to stifle joint, 10½in. ; from stifle to top of hip bone, 11in. ; girth of ham part of thigh, 17in. ; thickness of second thigh below stifle, 8½in.

BODY.—Girth round depth of chest, 30½in. ; girth round the loins, 23in. Weight the day before starting for the Cup, 63lb.

Until the following Waterloo, Honeywood was only once in public, when he took part in the Netherby Cup, and had to be drawn after winning three courses, in consequence of an injury to his foot. Kept in reserve from this date he was brought out to all appearance in the best of health, and a big stake was entrusted to him at prices down to 8 to 1, the best that could be obtained on the night of the draw. Debonnaire, now in Mr. Pilkington's possession, had only run once, and then she got beaten in the fourth round of the Altcar Club Cup, but she was supposed to be so much improved, that she was installed second favourite at 11 to 1, Dalcardo and Plunger being at 18 to 1 each, while the nice price of 2000 to 45 was accepted about Princess Dagmar. The style in which this grand bitch defeated all her opponents will not soon be forgotten, and created an impression that was even stronger than that caused by the less showy, but equally effective performances of Coomassie. Honeywood was supposed to be well drawn when he fell against Mr. Brocklebank's Bishop, who started at the forlorn price of 1000 to 4. What great expectations were put to flight when the brindled was seen to draw to the front, it boots not to tell, and when Honeywood stumbled, on a good opening being offered, "the favourite's beat" yelled from ten thousand throats, conveyed the too true intimation of the downfall of the hope of the Scotch division. Bishop proved, however, that his overthrow of the crack was no fluke, for M<sup>r</sup>Pherson, Dartmore's Princess, Clyto and Cui Bono had in turn to strike their flag to him. On the first and second days Princess Dagmar had beaten Camus, Handicraftsman (who led her), Commerce and Shipmate, showing fine pace and great cleverness, while she had the good luck to get off with short courses. Meeting Vindictive on the Friday morning she was quickly lengths in front, and finished up a short and smartly run course with a dashing kill, while Bishop had little assistance in a regular pumper, which he ran remarkably well, from Cui Bono. This left the dog in no condition to contend successfully with the daughter of Ptarmigan, who instantly cleared herself, and sending round the hare to the dog, she swept past him, and before going far effected a fine kill. Assault and Free Flag won three courses each, while in addition to those mentioned as being put out by the winner and runner up, Surpriser, Fagot, Annabel, Plunger, Debonnaire and Greyling, all got two courses. Mr. W. Smith secured the Purse with Sapper, a good public performer and a stout-hearted little dog, Mr. Marfleet's Memnon being second. Dulas and Mentor won three courses each, and Wood Reeve, Bird of Promise, Dalcardo and Cedric (dr.) two each. Dodger, the property of Mr. N. Dunn, but nominated by Capt. Ellis, cleverly won the Plate, defeating in the final round Mr. A. Coke's M'Pherson. Handicraftsman was third, and Arquebus fourth. I have already mentioned Coomassie's name in connection with Princess Dagmar, and before passing on to the completion of my self-imposed task I may say that no greater contrast could possibly exist than that between these two celebrated bitches. Appended will be found the measurement of Princess Dagmar, and it will be interesting to compare it with that of "the little fawn," showing as it does by the vast difference that exists that there is no standard by which to estimate a good greyhound:—

PRINCESS DAGMAR.

HEAD.—From tip of snout to joining on to neck, 8½in. ; girth of head between eyes and ears, 13½in. ; girth of snout, 8½in. ; distance between the eyes, 2in.

NECK.—Length of joining on from head to shoulders, 9½in. ; girth round neck, 13½in.

BACK.—From neck to base of tail, 24in. ; length of tail, 19in.

HIPS.—Length of loin from junction of last rib to hip bone, 8½in. ; length of hip bone to socket of thigh joint, 5½in.

FORE LEG.—From base of two middle nails to knee joint, 6in. ; from knee joint to elbow joint, 9½in. ; from elbow joint to shoulder blade, 12in. ; girth (thickness of the fore leg below the elbow), 6½in.

HIND LEG.—From hock to stifle joint, 11½in. ; from stifle to top of hip bone, 12½in. ; girth of ham part of thigh, 16½in. ; thickness of second thigh below stifle, 9½in.

BODY.—Girth round depth of chest, 27in. ; girth round the loins, 23in. Weight before starting for the Cup, 58lb.

To settle some disputed matter in reference to ownership, Princess Dagmar was in the interim sold, and became the property of Mr. W. Reilly, of Lady Lizzie fame. Unfortunately she was attacked with a sexual complaint early in the season, and before she had quite recovered Mr. Reilly started her for the Waterloo Trial Stakes at Plumpton January Meeting, the result being that she got beat in the second round by Leather Flapper. This, however, was not much thought of, as it was considered that she could not possibly be fit, and on the night of the draw for the great event of 1882, 100 to 11 was her price. Alec Halliday, who had been a wonderful performer during the year, divided the position of second favourite with the unbeaten Mary Morrison, a puppy by Croft Tammie out of Lady Mary, the price taken about them being 100 to 7. Witchery was backed at 200 to 13, Rosewater at 17 to 1, and Debonnaire at 100 to 6. The victory, however, was not to rest with any of these, and the final struggle was fought out between Snowflight, who started at 1000 to 15, and Hornpipe, who was freely befriended at 1000 to 20. The trials throughout the meeting were unusually good, so that no excuse could be urged for the downfall of favourites, although possibly never in the history of the Cup was there a more disastrous Wednesday than the 15th of February last. Princess Dagmar ran wretchedly ; Mary Morrison never once flattered the hopes of her backers, and Alec Halliday chested himself at a ditch, and was no sooner out of it than he was back in again, effectually settling his chance. Snowflight made a pretty exhibition when she beat General Windham, and followed that up by cleverly disposing of the highly-fancied Rhodora; Whipsnake was a little unfortunate, but was outworked, and Sugarcane and Witchery in turn had to strike their flag. Nothing, however, had been going so well as old Hornpipe, who had defeated such good performers as Glenlivet, Death or Glory, Banchory (1), Sut, and Leader. The final was a chapter of accidents, for after a short and well-contested course given undecided they were again despatched, but before reaching the hare a fresh one crossed and they separated, both getting pretty stiff trials, the Scotch bitch very much the longest. This handicapped the old one, and doubtless the going four times to slips in so short a time told upon her more than the puppy, who had the further advantage of a pretty strong inside in the run to the hare, and puss still continuing to favour her she held her place at the turn, wrenched a few times and killed, without her opponent having a chance of getting in. Planet and Assegai, in addition to those mentioned, got three courses, while Rosewater, Ben-y-Lair, Head the Trick, Bob, Clyde Pearl, and Deborah were the unnamed winners of two courses. M'Pherson, who was second for the Plate last year, won the Purse on this occasion, and Princess Dagmar made some amends for her wretched exhibition in the Cup by running second to him. Alice Titians and Mayo were third and fourth, while High Cardinal, Cenone, Murillo and Miami (dr.) were winners of two courses. The Plate fell to Debonnaire, who beat in the final Mr. M. Morrison's nomination, Maid Marion, after having previously disposed of Glengowan, Ravenshoe, and Death or Glory.

This brings my sketch of the Waterloo Cup to a close. I have already indicated what my principal object has been in writing it, viz., to serve as an introduction to the annexed return, and if I have succeeded in interesting a few readers I am amply repaid.

ERRATUM.—In sketch of Waterloo Cup, 1868, by a slip of the pen, Princess Royal is given as the winner of the Plate. It should be Strange Idea, by Cardinal York out of High Idea. I have also omitted to notice that in 1865 the meeting, in consequence of frost, was put off for a week, and a new draw took place.

PEDIGREES OF CELEBRATED GREYHOUNDS.

It is with diffidence the following pedigrees of well-known greyhounds are presented to the public. The returns of coursing meetings in previous days were meagre, the nomenclature confused, and the pedigrees uncertain. The compilers of "Thacker" confessedly had sometimes to offer guess work for facts. That work is almost the only authority available in genealogical researches. Where the foundation is not sound the building is not to be trusted. Faulty courses have been removed where they have been found out, but their discovery rouses a suspicion as to the soundness of the rest. The present workman may be wanting in skill to detect flaws in his new material; all he can claim is that there has been no scamping in his work. The establishment of a Stud Book shows a desire for accurate information on this branch of coursing. The compiler would therefore beg the older coursers, whose devotion to the sport went beyond the mere success of winning a stake, to help the work by their criticisms and their knowledge. To aid this critical examination, and to show the grounds on which he has Sire'd and Dam'd the Flies (to use the plaintive words of Thacker) and other uncertainties, he has added the names of the owners, the colours of the dogs, and the date of their birth. Owners, secretaries, reporters, compilers, and printers have combined to produce inaccuracies as to these details. Private information has not always been trustworthy.

In choosing the following list the compiler has wished to show the leading strains that are to be found in the modern greyhound. In the pedigree of Snowflight, the last that has borne the test of excellence in the Waterloo Cup, will be found some relationship to almost every one of those that precede her in this list. Assured accuracy therefore would be a gain to those who give their attention to the study of breeding greyhounds.

Assuming that the Waterloo Cup has affixed a trustworthy stamp of superiority on the successful greyhound, it would be desirable in the next volume of the Stud Book to give the pedigrees of the winners from the beginning, but the materials for doing so are wanting. Of the first fourteen scarcely anything of their breeding is known to the outside world with the exception of that of Bugle, Titania, and Senate. If extended pedigrees of these winners were sent to the keeper of the Stud Book, correspondents would be conferring information of great interest to the coursing public.

Should these efforts meet with support, he will be encouraged to add to them in succeeding volumes, till at last it will not be possible to say that, of all classes interested in breeding prize animals, coursers are the only body that has not energy enough to establish an authoritative guide.

The above analysis shows that these Biscuits are specially adapted to the purpose intended; that is to say, they are a highly nutritious food, in which all the necessary elements are well balanced, so as to constitute a PERFECT FOOD, without a particle of worthless or useless material.

In this important respect they are by FAR THE BEST DOG FOOD I have ever examined, and I have the greatest confidence in recommending them.

Special Quotations for 5 cwt. and 1 ton lots.

These Biscuits have for many years been used in some of the principal Kennels, and by experienced breeders and trainers of dogs. I have the permission of Mr. R. Gittus, the late owner of that most celebrated dog "COOMASSIE," twice winner of the "WATERLOO CUP," to use his name in support of "CHAMBERLIN'S MEAT BISCUITS." "Coomassie" and his other dogs were fed principally upon them.

CHAMBERLIN'S BISCUITS are also supplied to Mr. J. S. Postle, owner of PRINCESS DAHMAR, winner of the Waterloo Cup, 1881.

SIR,—The Waveney Harriers have been fed on your Meat Biscuits during the season. I am very well satisfied with them, and shall continue to use them.
—Yours faithfully, B. C. CHASTON.

CHAMBERLIN'S GRANULATED DOG FOOD

FOR PUPPIES, SICK AND DAINTY DOGS.

CARRACTUS says, in an article on the Rearing of Young Dogs (Sportsman's Journal, April 12, 1879), "For diminutive and delicate breeds I cannot do better than recommend Chamberlin's 'Granulated Dog Food,' which possesses the triple merit of being highly nutritious, grateful to the palate of the most seedy young canis, and entirely devoid of trouble in its preparation. In fact, Mr. Chamberlin's Food is so invaluable in many other ways with sick, delicate, or dainty dogs, that those who have not yet given it a trial should lose no time in doing so.

FOR THE PUBLIC SALE OF HORSES, CARRIAGES, SPORTING DOGS, AND GREYHOUNDS.

THE Sales of Horses and Carriages take place every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY throughout the year. The Sporting Dog Sales take place during the SUMMER, and the Greyhound Sales in the AUTUMN and SPRING.

Owners of large Kennels of Dogs are respectfully invited to give early notice of the Dates on which they require their Dogs Sold, in order that due publicity may be given.

The increase in the Sale of Dogs has rendered it necessary to build extensive Kennels and a Covered Sale-yard adjoining the Repository, which will be completed before the Spring, until then the Sales will be as heretofore.

The Commission on large Kennels of Greyhounds is five per cent., and the same will be charged on any lots returned as not answering the description. Five Shillings is the lowest Commission charged for any Lot Sold. Any Lot withdrawn or not sold 10s; Advertisements extra, but only costs out of pocket charged.

The proceeds of the Sales will be forwarded on written application.
